Getting Around Town: Phoenix roads are a grid, with major intersections approximately one-mile apart. Central Ave divides the East from the West, with "Streets" on the East, and "Avenues" on the West. Numbered streets run north to south, and named streets east to west. Among the most major roads is McDowell Rd, which will take you to the Hall of Dames, located just west of the I-17 freeway.

The Metro Light Rail runs through Northwest Phoenix, out to Mesa, and takes approximately 1.5 hours to go from one end to the other. Some of the more popular stops are in Downtown Phoenix, Sky Harbor Airport, and ASU in Tempe.
